

As a Bank of Queensland shareholder you understand the importance of investing for the future. Children's Hospital Foundations Australia (CHFA) understands that too.

CHFA partners are the major non-government funding bodies of clinical research in our children's hospitals and we know the difference that can be made to the lives of sick and terminally ill children by finding breakthrough treatments and cures. However nobody understands the importance of research like the parents of a sick child. For many, it is their only hope.

By donating all or part of your dividend to CHFA you can invest in hope for millions of children and their families.

CHFA is thankful to have Bank of Queensland as a proud supporter that believes in a responsibility to invest in communities and help build a brighter future. BOQ shareholders have raised $100,000 through this program to date and were the first to participate in the Investing In Hope Dividend Donation programme for the following reasons:

- Donating your dividend is a straightforward way to support a worthy cause – no cheques or credit cards and your privacy is respected. You simply tick the box on the form included and send it to Link Market Services. (Further details on the back of this letter).
- You continue to receive your dividend imputation credits to offset tax* and as your donation is also tax deductible, you will receive a receipt with a letter of thanks.
- You can cease your donation at any time by contacting Link Market Services.

The health of our children is one of the most important investments we can make. We sincerely appreciate your consideration of any donation from your dividend that you feel is appropriate.

Together, we can continue Investing in Hope for sick and injured children.

Yours sincerely

Nikki Johnston
National Director
